MOTORIST IS NOT ALWAYS GUILTY, SAYS JUDGE BOYER

So Informs the Jury Which Heard the Joseph Veisz Case

CAR STRUCK WOMAN

Other Court Cases Disposed Of at Doylestown Court

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 21—Joseph Veisz, of Morrisville, charged with aggravated assault and battery and assault and battery, was acquitted on Monday afternoon when President Judge Hiram H. Keller directed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

According to the Commonwealth, Mrs. Mabel Hall, Morrisville, was run down by a car alleged to have been driven by Veisz at the corner of Green and Pennsylvania avenues in Morrisville.

Mrs. Hall, taking the stand in her own behalf, testified that she was crossing the street when struck by the car. She suffered a broken leg and other injuries.

President Judge Keller directed the jury to acquit the man because no negligence on the part of the defendant was shown. "An accident does not necessarily mean that the driver of the car was negligent," said Judge Keller.

Witnesses who testified, all of whom arrived at the scene shortly after the accident, included Mrs. Marcuccio and her daughter, Mary, and George Rose, a traffic officer.

Members of the jury were H. Franklin Mohr, Perkaste R. D. 3; Lewis Worthington, Fountainville; Roy E. Thomas, Churchville; Howard Bradbury, Quakertown; Frank J. Jackson, Rhoelofs; Emma K. Moyer, Perkaste R. D. 3; William Laman, Bridgewater; Sadie E. Lambrite, Pipersville; Henry Hottel, Richlandtown; Allen N. Weidenmeyer, Sellersville; Joseph T. Diehl, Rushland; Joseph Hartman, Quakertown R. D. 5.

Morris Simpson, colored, of Langhorne, was convicted of assault and battery by a jury which deliberated only a few minutes before noon.

Simpson, who was described as "one of the few men who make trouble for Langhorne authorities" by a Langhorne Manor constable, was sentenced to serve three months to one year in the county prison. The sentence was suspended.

Simpson was placed on probation by the Court.

Judge Keller warned Simpson about creating any more trouble in Langhorne.

Charged with assault and battery, Morris Barsky, 2458 West 79th avenue, Oak Lane, went on trial before President Judge Hiram H. Keller in the grand jury room on Monday afternoon.

Theodore B. Serrill, of Hartsville, testified that on August 16, Barsky, accompanied by a constable and detective from Philadelphia, came into his home and ran through the house in order to serve a warrant on his son.

Serrill stated the officers did not say what they came for nor for whom they were looking, but that the defendant, upon seeing Serrill, Jr., shouted, "There he is, get him."

Barsky, according to his own testimony, had paid the son of Serrill the sum of $250 as part payment for a car. Barsky explained to the Court he had received neither the money nor the car and was placing him under arrest to obtain the money.

Two daughters of Theodore Serrill, Misses Eileen and Anna Serrill, who served as witnesses, described the fracas between their father and Barsky. Both girls stated their father was "bleeding from the nose" after a tussle with Barsky.

Barsky told the Court the younger Serrill pursued him with a shot-gun. Character witnesses for Barsky included Sarah A. Myers, 39 Cherry street, Willow Grove, and Herman Israel.

Members of the jury are: Charles Dalton, Bristol; Peter J. Conley, Bristol; Harold R. Watson, Newtown R. D.; Henry A. Glick, Sellersville; Arthur Shull, Pipersville; Henry W. Burgher, Doylestown; Ruth Heenan, Morrisville; Arthur R. Ebert, Coopersburg R. D. 1; William R. Sinkler, Southampton; Minerva Schaff, Upper Black Eddy; Newberry Trauger, Pipersville; LaMar Roberts, Quakertown.

ASSESSMENT APPEAL

On account of the blizzard it has been found necessary to defer the time for the making of appeals on property assessments before the County Commissioners.

Yesterday had been designated as the time for making the appeals.

Announcement was made this morning that the appeals may be filed, but delayed appeals will be heard by the Commissioners on Friday, February 23.

The Commissioners realize that a great many persons would be unable to get to the County Seat with the roads blocked by drifts in nearly all rural communities.

Social Circle, Baptist Church, Holds A Washington Social

The Social Circle of the First Baptist Church, held a George Washington social last evening in the Sunday School room, with about 55 present. The room was decorated with American flags, and an interesting program was given: Group singing; five minute speech on Abraham Lincoln, John Paulette; speech on George Washington; speech on President Roosevelt; Jackson Bower; solo, "America, the Beautiful," Miss Laura Ellis, accompanied by Miss Mildred Dyer; song, "Flag of the Free," Thelma Weik, Ruth Weik and Mildred Dyer. One young lady was dressed in red, one in white and one in blue. Mrs. John Bower was accompanist.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing games. For "Passing the Flag" a prize was awarded to George Martindell. Cherry guessing, Jackson Bower; tea party game, Miss Ellis; Robert Weik, Jr., received a prize for guessing the number of words in a story of Washington. Mrs. Joseph Talbot won the alphabet game. Refreshments of cherry tarts and coffee were served.

HEAR FROM PARENT AFTER 20-YEAR ABSENCE

Frank and Crude Crossley Locate Father in Klamath Falls, Oregon

IS NOW 80 YEARS OLD

CROYDON, Feb. 21—Two residents here are rejoicing over the fact that they are in receipt of a letter from their father from whom they have not heard for the past 20 years.

Frank J. Crossley, 2nd Avenue and State Road, today is in receipt of a letter from his father, William H. Crossley, whom neither he nor his brother, Crude, have seen or heard from for the past 20 years.

The letter received by Frank from his father who is now living in Klamath Falls, Oregon, states that the parent is well and now 80 years of age and would like to see his children from whom he has so long been separated.

"It is more than likely that we will go out this summer," says Mrs. Crossley, daughter-in-law of the aged man.

In 1906 Mrs. William H. Crossley died and her husband went to live with his son, Frank, in Lewiston, Idaho. They resided there until 1914 when one day the parent said he thought he would "take a little trip." That was the last heard of him until today.

He was a blacksmith and a very good machinist, according to his son, and could easily make his way. He took his tools with him. He was naturally of a roving disposition.

Early this month a daughter of the aged man read a notice inserted in a Bloomsburg, Pa., paper, which stated: "You can get in touch with your father and get further information by addressing Miss Edna W. Ackley, Klamath Falls, Oregon, in care of the County Clerk. She is the person with whom I have been working to try and locate some of the children."

The article was signed H. M. Gunther, prothonotary and clerk of the courts of Columbia county.

The article was clipped from the paper and sent to Frank Crossley here who immediately dispatched two letters by airmail, one addressed to Bloomsburg and one to Klamath Falls, Oregon.

The answer arrived yesterday. The family at one time lived in Bloomsburg.

LODGE CARD PARTY TONIGHT

The ways and means committee of Lily Rebekah Lodge, No. 366, will conduct a card party this evening for benefit of Hopkins Lodge, I. O. O. F., in Odd Fellows Hall. Games will start at 8:30, and players will find many prizes awaiting their choice, such as linens, glass-ware, kitchen utensils, wearing apparel, food, etc. The chairlady is Mrs. Robert Robinson, Edgely.

$50 FINE IMPOSED

Accused of allowing an unlicensed driver to operate his automobile, Nick Stallone, of Bristol, was fined $50 in Trenton police court. Eugene Oliver, also of Bristol, the alleged operator, was fined $10. The complaints were made by Traffic Policeman Kohfeldt, who alleged that Stallone attempted to pass his operator's license to Oliver when he halted the latter for ignoring his signal.

CARDS TOMORROW

The Travel Club card party tomorrow at the club home on Cedar street will commence at 2:30, with auction and contract bridge, "500" and pinocle. The players may either pivot or progress. Washington decorations will feature in honor of Washington's birthday. A sale of home-baked goods will also occur. Attractive prizes will be offered.

NO SERVICE TONIGHT

There will be no mid-week prayer service at Harriman M. E. Church this evening.

EUROPE IS IN UNIFORM

Europe Has Only An Even Chance to Escape Another War In the Near Future, Believes Eduard Benes, Foreign Minister of Czechoslovakia — Is Co-Founder of The Republic That Came Into Being at End of World War

(Note: Europe has only an even chance to escape another world war in the near future, Eduard Benes, foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, believes. In the ninth article of his series "Will War Come," Knickerbocker interviews this co-founder of the republic that came into being at the end of the last World War.)

"How so?" asked the Minister.

"Well, in Russia it has survived more severe blows than have befallen any other government: two major famines, a civil war, a war of intervention and a lost national war."

By H. R. Knickerbocker
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1934, by International News Service. Reproduction in whole or in part forbidden.)

PRAGUE, Feb. 21—(INS)—The shrewdest foreign minister in Central Europe believes this old continent has an even chance, but no better, to escape war in the near future. But if it does not come within five years, he believes it will not come at all.

Eduard Benes, co-founder of Czechoslovakia with President Masaryk, is 34 years younger than his venerable chief. The President says there will be no war because "there is no money," but Benes says the chances are fifty-fifty.

That was his own expression. The little man who has made his foreign ministry more important in the councils of Europe than the ministries of much larger states, wagged an energetic thumb as he sat at his desk an hour before train time for one of his periodic dashes to an allied capital. He wore a brown sweater-vest, and he had a million things to do, and generals waited in the ante-room, but he smiled, said he had plenty of time, and in thirty minutes summarized his view of Europe's future. One felt it was his real view.

"I say it is fifty-fifty," he put his fist on the table and waved his outstretched thumb. "I am speaking in terms of five years. I mean by that that if the present state of national tension that can be observed now in Germany were to continue for five years, then the chances of war would be more than fifty per cent."

"But political history and the history of dictatorships show that this sort of national tension is not likely to exist for so long. Furthermore, as we have seen, dictatorships evolve. I am not so sure that the Germany of five years from now will be the same Germany it is today."

Three Speakers Scheduled For Travel Club Meeting

The program committee will be in charge of the numbers at the meeting of the Travel Club in the club home Friday afternoon. Speakers will be: Mrs. Thomas Ross, Doylestown, who needs no introduction to Bristol people; Robert R. Logan, of "Sarobia," Edgington, who will tell of "Man's Relation to Animals;" and Miss Mabel Zimmers, head of the Animal Welfare Department of the Theosophical Order of Service, whose topic will be "Fur Fabrics." Miss Zimmers will also display fur fabrics. Music will also feature.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Paul Hogvard and Mrs. Warren Snyder. Tea will be served under direction of Mrs. Joseph McCarron, chairman of the social committee.

Feed the Birds

(By "The Stroller")
"Feed the birds!"
This is the plea of the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association.

With the deep snow covering bushes, boughs of trees and the terrain in general, the little feathered friends are more or less up against it at present. Their natural feeding grounds are buried, and the source of supply is small.

The local organization asks that farmers and residents of all communities provide some food for the birds. It will prove a greater benefit than most people can imagine.

To residents of communities it is suggested that they place where they can readily be seen, grains, bread crumbs, pieces of suet, or any bits of food they know the birds will relish.

Farmers can aid much by distributing some grain or other food products.

Many in this area have made a regular habit of placing food upon their lawns for the birds, and each day watch for the winged-ones to appear and chirp their thanks as they eat. It has become a pleasure for those who have been caring for the birds in this manner, and the entire countryside will be benefited as the birds destroy pests which harm trees, fruits and vegetables in the Summer.

It is hoped the army of feeders will enlarge considerably, especially during the time the snow is here, when the birds find their feeding places covered for long periods.

"Is it not true, however," I asked, "that experience has shown that this sort of political organization, invented by Lenin, and taken over by Mussolini and Hitler, is the most durable form of government that has been invented in modern times?"

"Yes," agreed M. Benes, "but the important aspect of the Russian government is the evolution it has gone through. Today there is no more talk of communism abroad; no more agitation, no more of all those things which frightened the outside world most about the Soviet regime. And that is precisely the point I am making about dictatorship. They do evolve, and just because they do, I say there is a chance that if the war does not come within five years, Germany may have changed to such an extent in her nature."

HOPKINS LODGE NOW HAS 190 MEMBERS

Independent Order of Odd Fellows Was Instituted Here in 1843

FIRST MEETING, NOV. 25

This is one of a series of articles in which an effort has been made to record the history of various organizations in this area. Some idea of that which has been accomplished by the organizations is also given and as much data is published as has been available. The information upon which the articles are based has been furnished by those still active in the organizations.

Article XXII

Hopkins Lodge, No. 87, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, was instituted October 16, 1843.

The first meeting was held on November 25, 1843, at which time the Lodge was duly and legally opened for the purpose of benevolence and charity, after which the Lodge proceeded to the election of its officers. Balloting on that first occasion showed that Pugh Dungan was chosen for Noble Grand; Joseph McCarton for vice grand; Charles T. Brudon, secretary; and James Strimback, treasurer. Hopkins Lodge derives its name from Grand Master Hopkins, who occupied the chair on the night it was constituted.

The meetings were held in the old Masonic Hall on Saturday evenings until Hopkins Lodge built Washington Hall in 1848, which is located at Radcliffe and Walnut streets. The Hopkins Lodge also rents this building for sessions of other organizations.

Ever since the Lodge was instituted it has been engaged in a noble work of "Friendship, Love and Truth."

At the present time the Lodge has a membership of 154.

The lodge found its membership exceedingly small about 10 years ago, the number of men affiliated having dropped to about 27. It was near that period that the late Russell W. Carly had joined Hopkins Lodge. Realizing that "new blood" was needed for the revivification of the organization, Mr. Carly enlisted the aid of the members in a membership drive. A smoker was staged and the matter talked over. From that time on interest and members increased, with the result that in a few years the roster listed the names of about 190. With the addition of many young men in Hopkins Lodge a new lease was taken on the life of the lodge, and the organization once more became very active.

The present officers are: noble grand, Charles G. Brodie; vice grand, John Morrell, Jr.; recording secretary, William F. Carson; financial secretary, Francis V. Wear; treasurer, Franklin C. Smith; right supporter to Noble Grand, J. Harry Hinman; left supporter to noble grand, William H. Hibbs; warden, William Barr; conductor, Melvin Cox; R. S. Supporter, John Winterstone; L. S. Supporter, William Warner; chaplain, William Bolton; outside guard, Cyril Heaton; inside guard, Irvin Scheffey; right supporter to vice grand, John Ritter; left supporter to vice grand, Harry McCoy; trustees, James W. Lefferts, Albert G. Loechner, Robert C. Ruehl.

William F. Carson, the secretary of the local lodge, has served in that capacity for the past 10 years, and James W. Lefferts, one of the trustees, has had a greater length of service as trustee.

AIR TRAFFIC HALTED

Denver, Colorado, Feb. 21—Air traffic was at a stand-still throughout the Rocky Mountain region today, mail being dispatched by train. Snow storms which paralyzed air travel out of Salt Lake swept across the mountains and threatened to handicap the air mail service in and out of Cheyenne, Wyoming.

JURY NEARLY SELECTED

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 21—Selection of a jury which will try Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynkoop in the strange operating table murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, neared completion today. With eight jurors sworn in and two others tentatively selected, the Court predicted that the taking of evidence would begin before adjournment today. All the jurors thus far sworn have said they have no conscientious scruples against the death penalty.

STAVINSKY ENDS LIFE

Paris, France, Feb. 21—Alexander Stavinsky, $40,000,000 swindler, international spy. This was the sensational picture painted by police and Paris newspapers of the man who committed suicide while police closed in to arrest him in connection with the bankruptcy of the Municipal Pawn Shop at Bayonne, a financial scandal that caused the fall of a French cabinet. The French secret service reports hinted broadly that Stavinsky might have been a spy both for the French and the German Nazis.

LOCATE MISSING PRINCE

London, England, Feb. 21—Stubbornly refusing to renounce his plan to marry a pretty German motion picture actress over the protests of the Swedish Royal family, Prince Sigvard, second son of Crown Prince Gustav of Sweden, was located today living in seclusion in a small exclusive hotel in the West End. The prince, who is 26 and third in line for the Swedish throne, was found after an intensive search of Berlin and London, after it was reported he had "eloped" with his commoner bride-to-be, a beautiful 22-year-old blonde. The prince was firm in declaring his intentions to wed the girl, the daughter of a wealthy Berlin merchant.

BOROUGH APPLIES FOR TWO NEW CWA PROJECTS

To Enlarge Water Filtration Plant and Repair Sewer Beds

TO REMOVE RAILS, TIES

Applications for two additional CWA projects were approved by Borough Council which met in special session last night.

The borough is applying for labor to remove the rails and ties of the trolley company from Radcliffe, Mill and Otter streets. A resolution was presented by Richard T. Myers, street and highway committee.

The borough is applying for labor and materials for an extension to the filter house at the water pumping station and for the installation of two new filter units and for labor and material to repair deteriorated concrete walls of sedimentation beds at sewer plant. A resolution was presented by Frank Pfeiffer of water committee.

Resolutions for the applications to be made to the Civil Works Administration were unanimously adopted by council.

In explaining the work which is contemplated John S. Roberts, Jr., in addressing council said that with the addition of 23 miles of water distribution mains into the Bristol Township area, that additional filtration facilities would be needed. He exhibited sketches showing an addition to be built to the filtration house, measuring 23 feet and two new filter units to be installed. These two new units will increase the filtration capacity of the plant about one and a half million gallons a day.

The estimated cost is $19,900 of which amount the CWA will pay $11,800 and the borough will spend about $7,612.

It is expected the work will be completed within 40 working days.

The applications will be forwarded to Harrisburg at once for approval.

It is estimated the cost of removing the trolley rails and ties will total $3,888 of which the entire sum will be paid by CWA, if the application is approved.

The state highway department will then resurface with asphalt the area formerly occupied by the trolley facilities.

Councilmen present were Wagner, Winter, Wisner, Vandegrift, Myers, Fallon, Roche, Foster, Fry, Spezzano, Spencer, Pfeiffer, Winslow.

COURIER TO CONDUCT COOKING SCHOOL AND EXHIBIT HERE FOR THREE DAYS; ALL WOMEN INVITED TO ATTEND

PREDICT LOW TEMPERATURES

A bright sun broke through the morning dawn to bring some relief to frozen Pennsylvania today but still sub-zero temperatures prevailed along the northern border line, especially in western Pennsylvania.

This respite from the biting cold appeared to be only temporary, however. Snow, followed by cold was the best the weather man could predict for the western and central sections, while the mercury was scheduled to drop to a great degree in central and eastern sections before tomorrow.

The icy breath of winter still was felt severely in Venango and McKean counties where official reports placed the mercury in some sections at 17 below.

With the majority of highways opened once again, the State Highway Department prepared to battle another blizzard expected tonight.

With a quick thaw threatening to flood lowlands along the New Jersey and Pennsylvania shores, ice flows today endangered shipping in the Delaware River. A large hole was torn in the bow of the oil tanker Ligonier by the floes and it was necessary to beach the vessel, carrying a crew of 40, at Claymont, Delaware.

WORKERS CONCENTRATE ON BRISTOL PIKE SNOW

Lincoln Highway Open, However, and Greatest Portion of Street Road

SECTION DIGGING OUT

Bucks County residents are attempting to dig themselves out of one of the worst snow storms experienced in a dozen years. Pleasure and burden vehicles have since the heavy snowfall of Monday night experienced difficulties with the drifting white mass.

Routine in homes and places of employment is off schedule as a result, with workers finding difficulty in reaching their shops, and men delivering foods, milk, coal, etc. have been greatly hampered in their trips.

The Pennsylvania State Highway Department announced this morning that the Lincoln Highway is open throughout its entire length in Bucks County, traffic not being delayed at all from Morrisville to the Philadelphia city line. On Bristol Pike, however, it is a different story, the highway being closed at Wheatheaf this morning. The snowplow has experienced much difficulty in overcoming huge drifts.

Hundreds of cars have experienced trouble, however, on the roadways not so frequently travelled, on side streets, and in driveways.

Street Road is open from the Lincoln Highway to the York Road, but at some other points on this thoroughfare drifts are quite deep.

The thoroughfare from Bristol to Doylestown, via Newportville and Hulmeville, is open to traffic, the upper end of this roadway being cleared last evening.

Durham Road has been drifted heavily between Midway and Hulmeville Road, and some drifts are also experienced from Midway to Bristol. It is expected this will be cleared today.

Approximately 500 men have been working under the jurisdiction of the state highway department in Bucks county, aiding in making thoroughfares passable for vehicles.

A number of the lesser thoroughfares in Bucks County are being slowly opened to traffic, and it is believed conditions will be much improved by tonight.

In industrial establishments and in schools yesterday many workers and students were absent. A number of those, especially in the more isolated sections, were unable to leave their premises yesterday, and many did not make the treks today owing to road conditions.

The conditions surrounding some schools were such that 127 of these were closed yesterday. There were 523 pupils unable to reach the Doylestown borough schools.

The wind blew piles of snow on to the Lackawanna Trail almost as fast as snow ploughs pushed it off, and has service to Easton was halted at 9:30 last night. One bus was caught in a drift near Pipersville and 12 passengers spent the night at a farmhouse.

Bristol garages were filled to capacity last evening. Many individuals from out-of-town, employed here, decided to remain in the borough overnight; some sought other means of transportation to their homes; and some car owners who have been keeping their machines in the open, parked the vehicles in garages in order to avoid digging out this morning.

The basketball games between Doylestown and Bristol high schools, scheduled for last evening, were postponed, as it would have proved difficult to get to the games.

Sessions To Be Held In The Mutual Aid Hall, Wood Street

EACH AFTERNOON AT 2

No Charge For Admission; Engage Noted Food Lecturer

Announcement is made today that the Courier will conduct a cooking school and exhibit in Mutual Aid hall, Wood street, above Jefferson avenue, on the afternoons of Wednesday, February 28th, Thursday, March 1st, and Friday, March 2nd.

A cordial invitation is extended to women of Bristol and the entire lower section of Bucks County to attend.

All three sessions will begin at two o'clock each afternoon and they will be of particular interest to women. Those who attended the previous schools conducted by the Courier will need no second invitation to attend and those who were not fortunate enough to be present at any of the sessions will make it a point to be on hand, this time.

Readers of today's Courier will find considerable space devoted to publicity concerning the cooking school which is to be held in the Mutual Aid Hall on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Feb. 28, Mar. 1 and 2.

One of the matters of prime interest and importance in opening the cooking school is securing the services of the best instructor and lecturer on home economics that is available, and we have been fortunate in securing Miss Vera A. Schneider, widely known in this section of the country and in the East as such a lecturer and demonstrator of household equipment and kitchen aids. Miss Schneider will conduct the school here.

A complete modern kitchen will be installed on the stage of Mutual Aid hall where Miss Schneider will tell the housewives of this vicinity, what she knows of the culinary art and give practical demonstrations of her methods of procedure. She has full knowledge of every phase of cooking, having studied home economics and domestic science for a number of years. She is constantly experimenting with foods and with kitchen appliances and promises to bring to Bristol some brand new recipes and some new ideas for parties, luncheons and the like.

Awards will be given free each day. Don't plan anything else for these days—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Feb. 28, Mar. 1 and 2, from 2:00 to 4:00 p. m.

NO INTOLERANCE FOUND

The conclusion reached by a group representing the National Conference of Jews and Christians that there is at present no evidence of a revival of intolerance in the United States will come as a most gratifying development to Americans.

The group included a Jewish rabbi, a Catholic priest and a Presbyterian minister. They made a tour of the country and announced their conclusions on their recent return to New York.

It was not their purpose, they explained, to attempt to bring the various elements into religious agreement, but to "emphasize the most significant contribution of America to the theory and practice of government—religious freedom." That intolerance has at times blazed out in America is a fact that Americans do not like to admit. It represented, though, an abnormal rather than a normal phase of American life. The danger of its recurrence is one that must be guarded against. Religious freedom is one of the principles on which the nation was founded, and it must be safeguarded.

It is not enough that the principle should have been embodied in the constitution or that its observance here should have been in advance of that elsewhere. As long as there is the possibility that the right of religious liberty may be denied anywhere in the country, there will be the need of vigilance and for the assertion of a vigorous public opinion.

WAS HE BLUFFING?

A statement by M. Rosengoltz, Soviet foreign trade commissar, may prove discouraging to American business interests that had expected United States recognition to be followed by large Russian buying in American markets.

According to Commissar Rosengoltz, the Soviet Union has attained independence in the construction of equipment and machines and will not buy these products abroad unless credit conditions are "changed and improved."

Russia, in the last 16 years, he explained, has become an exporter of manufactured goods. Previous to that time its exports had been chiefly food and raw materials.

"Soviet machine construction should satisfy the whole demand of the national economy in the second five-year period," said the commissar. "But if we get long-term loans with normal low interest we might possibly increase imports."

The latter part of his statement may cast doubt on the accuracy of the first part and cause one to believe that M. Rosengoltz may have been indulging a little in what Americans call bluff. If Russia is capable of supplying all of its needs, why should it make any purchases abroad even at low interest rates?

Those air mail contracts had a forced landing.

Unlock The Door To Recovery

-- With An R. F. C. For Industry!

THE CLIFTON, N. J., JOURNAL

UNCLE SAM holds the key to real and permanent prosperity—the key which the cartoonist has labeled "Loans to Industry." Our government has tried other keys in the form of loans to banks, railroads, insurance companies and agriculture, but they do not seem to fit the main lock on the front door. These other keys are all right for special compartments within the recovery structure itself but they fail to open the gateway through which the nation as a whole may enter.

Open the door to industry with R. F. C. loans—the same kind of loans Uncle Sam has been making for nearly two years to other groups in our national economic life—and millions more people can be put to work at a profit not only to themselves but to industry itself, to the banks, railroads, insurance companies and to the farmers who have already been helped.

The first concern at Washington has been to see that people were given jobs—and jobs were created for them at government expense. We agree with the administration in that procedure when it becomes vitally necessary to supply people with a chance to make a living. But why not, since people must be given jobs, open the regular channels of industrial employment and put them to work at productive labor, in jobs at which they are experienced?

Until industry is given a chance to get back to normalcy, nothing else can get back to normalcy no matter how much is spent on round-about patching of the economic structure. All of the groups that have received loans to date are dependent upon industrial prosperity. They will use up loan after loan so long as the chief hopper of industry is empty.

What can the railroads move without industry? From what other source can banks draw deposits? If the industrial employee doesn't work, from whom will insurance companies collect premiums? And if the industrial cities can't buy the farmers' produce, how will agriculture prosper?

Industry, suffering from the same shrinkages and depreciations as these other groups, is in need of R. F. C. loans. Give it this help and the main door to re-employment will be thrown open. A vast army of workers will get back on their old jobs and the investor, the fellow who can't draw his money from closed banks, that other unfortunate, the lapsed policy holder and the farmer will reap their due from the profits earned by industrial labor and industrial capital.

"I've never really forgiven you, you know, for running away," said Marcia.

forget. He closed his eyes swiftly, felt again the soft, warm pressure of her body against his, saw again the dripping sweetness of her mouth, the drenched softness of her eyes. Knew that it must never happen again, that he must forget that it had ever happened at all.

"I'm cold," Stanley sprang up suddenly. The fire had burned itself into a mound of crumbling coals. Stanley investigated the lunch basket and found some sandwiches. They ate them hungrily, sweaters tied about their shoulders, bodies relaxed and tingling in the warmth of the fire.

"I mustn't look at her," John Harmon thought desperately. "We must keep on talking," he thought. And there was nothing to say. "I've known this for a long time, but I've never admitted it. I never intended to—I don't intend to now." And he kept his eyes fixed on the ocean.

"It's been a day to remember," Stanley said softly, peering at the fire with a sunbeamed twig. "It's been lovely and gentle and sort of wistful. Haven't you felt like that about it, John Harmon?"

He nodded, still refusing her his eyes. "October is like that—beautiful and breathtaking and sort of poignant." He hesitated a bit over the last word. He was still a little shy about words like that. It was still easier to write them than to speak them.

"It's like an enchanting interlude," he went on slowly, "giving lavishly, promising nothing. That's what makes it so unbearably lovely. Stanley, the sense of elusiveness one feels about a day like this, the sense of flight, sustained for a moment, then gone forever." His voice stopped abruptly on a rough, tight note. It was not the day he was describing, but this other thing—this tremulous, fragile relationship between himself and this slim girl beside him. . . . an enchanting interlude promising nothing, the sense of flight—sustained for a moment, then gone forever.

Stanley was not looking at him. Her eyes were on the fire. She answered him softly, slowly. "That's all life is—don't you think?—beautiful moments held for a space, then gone forever."

A searing little pain flicked John Harmon's heart. He knew that note in Stanley's voice, he'd heard it often enough, heaven knows! He knew what he would find in her eyes, if he had the courage to look, knew the twisted, gallant little smile that would be lying on her lips. She hadn't forgotten. She might never deal of pleasant assurance. She was rarely bored. Marcia, it will be remembered, was not clever. She was not troubled with any confusing ideas about life. She was troubled, in fact by very few ideas of any kind, any she had were always well-ordered and easily pigeon-holed.

She had not thought of Stanley in weeks when one day she walked into her on Madison Avenue. She was crossing the pavement to her car when there, miraculously, was Stanley.

Quarter-peck of Peas

WHEN you buy a quarter-peck of green peas, you actually don't get a quarter-peck of them. The pods are part of your measure. And these you throw away—because they are waste. It's the peas you eat.

Consider this when you buy fuel. Because the "pod" has already been removed from Koppers Coke—the wasteful elements which cannot give clean heat. As a result of this refining, Koppers Coke requires little draft. You can pile your fire-pot high with it for a long, unattended fire. When you want quick heat just open the dampers and you'll get it! You need jiggle the grates only slightly once a day. Because there are so few ashes!

If you haven't enjoyed Koppers convenience during the early part of the winter, enjoy it now. Made by Ruiney-Wood Coke Company, Conshohocken, Pa.

SZABO CARDED FOR TOP BOUT AT ARENA

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 21.—Tonight's wrestling at the Arena will be marked by the return to active warfare of the brilliant Hungarian, Sandor Szabo, who has been on the sidelines for several months, due to a blood poisoning infection suffered in a bout with Bronowicz. His brawl with Al Gilewicz is scheduled over the two falls out of three route.

All returns to the wind-up class. Four successive victories earned him the bout with the handsome Magyar. He tossed Tiny Roebuck, Sid Nabors, Jerry Monahan and Vanka Selezniak to get the shot. Al's two great bouts with Ernie Dusek and his agility and mastery of the intricacies of the game have made him a popular hero with the fans, and his large following will be out strong to root him in a winner over the bronzed Adonis. Szabo is also one of matland's premier grapplers.

Frank Bronowicz, popular Polish torso-twister, who has not appeared here since traveling the one and one-half hour route with Dick Shikat, resumes mat warfare in the one fall to a finish semi-windup against Little Beaver, who in his first appearance here last week held Johnny Supsie to a corking 30-minute draw. He is a villain of the first water and is destined to take Jim Clinstock's place as the target of the fans' abuse.

Paul Boesch, another favorite of local fandom, lost his only bout here against Joe Savoldi. Paul's opponent, Scotty McDougall, is well liked for his earnest, though sometimes off-color tactics, that are reminiscent of Ernie Dusek. He is a rugged, capable wrestler, and this 30-minute time limit set to should be a thriller.

In the opening 30-minute contest, Johnny Supsie, a favorite of long standing here, will oppose the former cowboy, Orville Brown, who in his only other match here waged a torrid draw with McDougall.

The first bout will start at 8.30 o'clock.

F. CAMPBELL HERE

18-INCH MAIN BURST

Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—Exploding with terrific force, a 48-inch water main under a tennis court burst open today in the northeast section of the city. From the rupture in the big main a geyser between 15 and 20 feet high shot upwards and within a few minutes a wide area of several city squares was covered with a sheet of water that turned quickly to ice. The entire section was temporarily deprived of its water supply. The blast accompanying the bursting of the main was so loud that hundreds of residents were awakened and ran to the streets.

ON TRIAL FOR WIFE'S MURDER

Pittsburgh, Feb. 21.—Robert S. Soles, wealthy McKeesport real estate operator, who denied emphatically from the witness stand that he fired the fatal bullet into his attractive wife, came back to criminal court today to see the defense push his murder trial to a conclusion. Only a few defense witnesses remained to be heard and then preparation will be made to place the case in the hands of a jury of six men and six women. They must determine if Soles, despite his denial and repudiation of an alleged confession, fired the fatal shot.

LESS UNEMPLOYMENT

SAN FRANCISCO.—(INS)—Employment and payrolls in California showed a substantial increase last month as compared with January, 1933, according to figures released here by Frank C. MacDonald, State Labor Commissioner. The same 1,168 representative establishments in the state employed 23.5 per cent more workers in January, 1934, than in January, 1933, the total payroll increasing 26 per cent and the average weekly earnings two per cent.

Residents of Falls Township saved Abe Levetti, of Brooklyn, from freezing to death in the cab of his truck on the Lincoln Highway, near Morrisville.

Numb from exposure, the victim was carried from the unheated cab of the truck and taken to the house of Percy Van Aken, Morrisville grocer, where he was revived.

Levetti and his brother, Andrew, were proceeding to Philadelphia Monday night when the truck became stalled in a drift. Andrew started for Morrisville to obtain help. He got as far as a Morrisville garage and spent the remainder of the night there.

At 7.15 o'clock yesterday morning, residents informed Morrisville State Police that a man in a truck was in danger of freezing to death. Troopers drove as far as Lincoln Point and then were forced to abandon their car. By the time they had trudged through the drifts they found that the victim had been revived.

Five Trentonians received injuries requiring hospital attention in an auto mishap early yesterday on the Lincoln Highway, near Fallsington.

The victims are: John Gould, 38, of 60 Connecticut Avenue, driver of the car, severe lacerations of the scalp; his wife, Helen, aged 39, same address, lacerated nose; Mrs. Sadie Challenger, 37, of 47 Connecticut Avenue, sprained ankle and possible fracture of the leg; Howard Day, 27, of 1774 East State Street, lacerated scalp, and his wife, Ethel, 25, same address, who sustained injuries to her head.

tional ambitions and in her spirit that war may ultimately be avoided.

"Will Germany be completely re-armed within five years?"

"That is not so sure," exclaimed the minister, pressing down his thumb. M. Benes was cautious on this point. But he does not believe in the possibility of a "preventive war."

"The allied countries," he declared, "were unprepared for a preventive war. They were morally unprepared. Only a few men in the allied countries were thus prepared. The people were not prepared. So a preventive war is out of the question. The only alternative is a more effective united front on the part of all the peace-loving peoples of Europe."

I asked if the Polish-German negotiations disturbed him. He replied "I do not think that any breach will be made in the front permanently."

But there is Austria, what would happen to Czechoslovakia if Austria went Nazi, became de facto part of Germany?

"Are you worried about Austria?"

"Not at all," he responded confidently. "You see, all the time people have been saying that Austria is chiefly a Czechoslovakian question, they say 'You will be surrounded.' 'You will be choked to death.' Not at all.

"The fact is it took people a long time to realize what the correct proportions of the Austrian question were. It took them a long time to realize that Austria is first a European question, second an Italian question, third a Central European question, fourth a French question, and fifth and finally a Czechoslovakian question."

"But everybody says that if Austria goes Nazi or goes Hapsburg you will march."

"No. We will do what Italy and France do. Or let me put it this way. We will leave the question to the great powers, and especially to Italy and Germany. I am ready to follow the lead of Mr. Mussolini, and we shall be glad to have him settle the problem with Germany." The minister grinned a downright gleeful grin. Czech Democrats are no lovers of dictatorships, and it gave him quite pleasure to think of the embarrassment it would cause to the black shirts if the brown shirts came too close.

But foreign minister Benes sees one good result for his country from Hitler's rise to power. He believes it has strengthened the defensive will of the country and has unified the nation.

"The Hitler revolution has had an initially unifying effect on Czechoslovakia," he declared. "England became united after centuries of struggles; France after the French revolution; Italy after the risorgimento and Mussolini's march on Rome, and Germany after the rise of Prussia under Frederick the Great, the war with Austria, the Franco-Prussian war of 1871, and finally after Hitler.

"The Czechoslovakian nation, always united in spirit, only became formally so after the great war, but it took the development of European policy during the last few years, ending with the rise to power of the two dictatorships in Italy and in Germany to bring to us the full consciousness of unification.

"Time is working for Czechoslovakia. That is true of all the new countries. The longer they exist in peace, the more chance they have of continuing to exist. The world must become accustomed to them and take them for granted.

"But after all it is my feeling that the forms of government in Europe are more important than people think for the problem of war or peace. Dictatorships are always very susceptible to the questions of prestige, of honor, and of success. Dictatorships are very unstable. They rock back and forth in the wind. We are Democrats. Democratic statesmen are right down on the ground, with the people. They know what is going on. The ground under them is stable, without surprises.

"In dictatorships you cannot tell what the people think, you cannot tell what is really going on until the dictatorship has passed. That is why dictatorships are always strong until the last five minutes," the thumb waved and the grin returned.

"I believe that Democracy will once more be dominant. Dictatorships as neighbors always strengthen democracies in those countries where economic and political conditions are healthy. We in Czechoslovakia have been strengthened. In spite of the present condition of Europe I am confident of the ultimate victory of democracy.

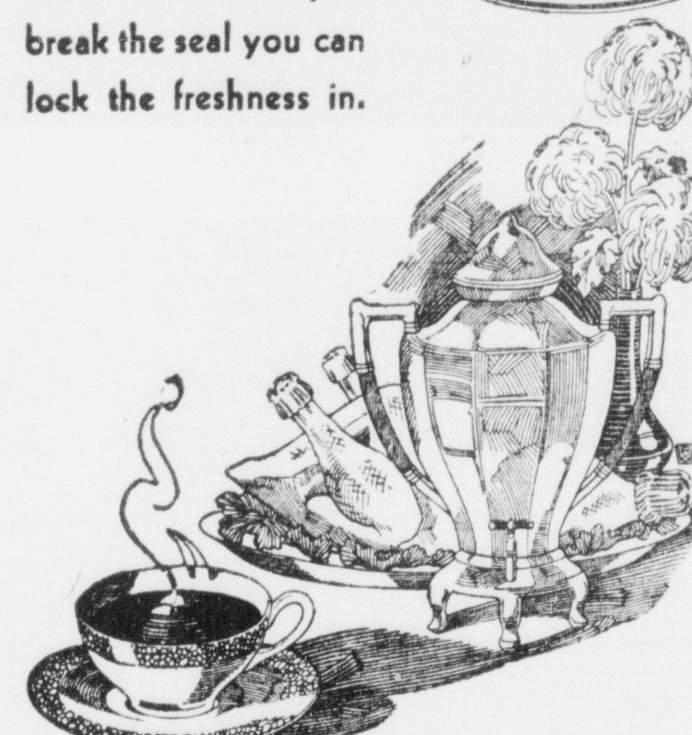

"You see, I am an optimist. It is my business to take account of every eventuality. We must be prepared for war; we must be prepared for peace. We are prepared for both."

Czechoslovakia has the worst military geographical situation of any allied state. Today it has sixty-five million Nazi neighbors. Tomorrow it may have seventy-two million, if Austria goes Nazi. It has three million militant Germans within its own borders, many of them clamoring to join the Reich. It has for a neighbor Hungary, now waging a ferocious new propaganda assault to regain Slovakia.

But Czechoslovakia has its treaties for mutual defense with France, Rumania and Yugoslavia. It has the smallest but best equipped army of the Little Entente. It has Skoda, the biggest munition plant in central Europe. Finally it has Benes. He is worth more for keeping the peace than the army, but he gives the real odds at fifty-fifty. (Tomorrow Knickerbocker interviews King Alexander I. of Yugoslavia, whom he terms "boss of the Balkans.")

TOURNEY
FEB. 20.

FLORIDA, the scene of quite a few important sporting events this winter, will hold the attention of golf fans during the next couple of weeks, when the play in the Florida East Coast championship and the South Atlantic championship—both for women—will be featured by the appearance as contenders of such fair links luminaries as our own Virginia Van Wie, Maureen Orcutt and Helen Hicks, and Kathleen Garnham of Great Britain.

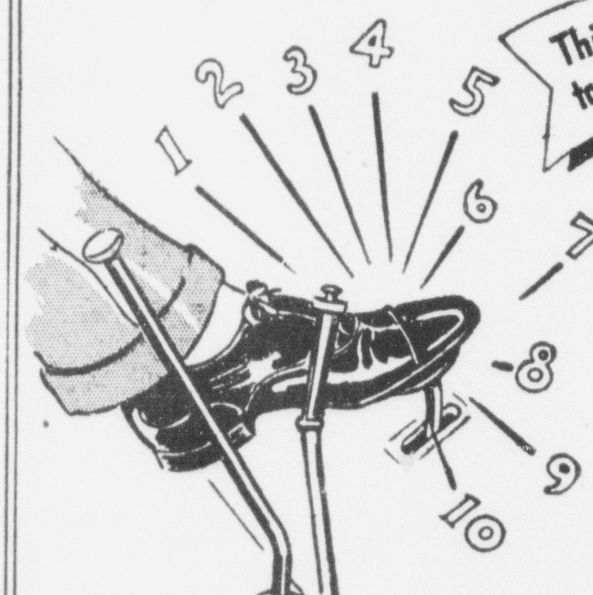

Miss Garnham, one of England's ranking women golfers, competed in several Florida tournaments last winter, when she was accompanied by Miss Diana Fishwick, former British Champion. On her last visit, questionably one of the greatest women golfers in the game. Technically, Miss Orcutt is probably without an equal among the feminine links stars. She is the longest, straightest hitter of them all, and is the deadliest of iron players. On the green this husky Jersey lass is without a weakness—her putting excels that of any of her competitors.
